DRAGGED BY A MOTOR.

Frank P. Jepson, President of the econd Branch of Council and cashier of the Bank of the Ohio Valley, came very near to being dragged under the wheels of a train on the Elm Grove motor line ship, which fortunately were very poor. ast evening.

Mr. Jepson intended to go to the country, and went to the Wheeling & Elm Grove railroad crossing, on Fourteenth street, just as the 7 o'clock motor went by. He made a grab for a passing car and missed his footing. In falling he managed to retain his hold on the car step and was dragged on his back a distance of about 125 feet. There is a stone wall at this point, close to the motor track, with only a few inches of space between at this point, close to the motor track, with only a few inches of space between the cars and the wall. Mr. Jepson was dragged the whole length of the wall, let go his hold when he got by and rolled some distance on the ground. The motor was stopped. The wounded man was taken to his home on Twelfth street, and Dr. C. M. Frissell was called in. It was found that no bones were broken, though the back was badly bruised and blood was flowing from several bad cuts in his head. It was a very narrow escape.
